INTERNATIONAL ACADEMY FOR DIGITAL DENTAL MEDICINE

LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear members and friends of IADDM

Digital technologies have spurred a fundamental and organic transformation within dental medicine. They are changing ultimately, altering what they do and how they do it. As core competencies, systems, and processes become further integrated, they will create more streamlined solutions and open the door to possibilities that were once merely pipe dreams. And as digitization works its way into various processes in the operatory and laboratory, the links between the industry's manufacturing and service communities are evolving, crafting new processes and business models that will rev the economic engine for growth.

Having the honor as the third president of the International Academy for Digital Dental Medicine, I welcome all members as well as anyone who is interested join this unique gathering of professionals, enthusiasts, researchers, developers and novices to contemporary and future dentistry. Though still young, the academy has succeeded to position itself as the most important landmark for science, exchange and networking in the field of digital dental medicine.

The global success of IADDM is unique. Our 4th annual meeting in Shanghai, People's Republic of China, depicted an enormous achievement. With an unprecedented scientific program, joyful social events and an attendance of more than 1200 participants, big thanks go to the program chairs, Prof. Marinello, Prof. Strub and Prof. Wang for their outstanding efforts to make the event a success story. The meeting brought generalists, specialists, students and dental technologists as well as the industry all together under one roof. Further thanks go to our sponsors and industry partners. Their big commitment and support are a perfect example of the current status and importance of pushing forward digital dental medicine.

The academy will continue to promote the advancement of digital dental medicine. We will have our 5th edition of the International Annual Meeting of IADDM on October 4-6, 2019 in Nara, Japan. Save the date and be a part of the success story of IADDM.

Sincerely yours,

Prof. Dr. Wael Att

President IADDM

REPORT: 4TH ANNUAL MEETING, SHANGHAI

For several reasons we had to move our 4th annual Meeting at short-term from Nanning to Shanghai. This move developed to be a very fruitful, efficient, fortunate and attractive solution. Thanks go specifically to Mrs Echo Liu, the local Event Manger.

Mrs. Echo Liu

She was at the same time highly supportive, indispensable and always available to work on the many challenges this big meeting was offering. The smooth cooperation with a private company (ImplanTeeth Medical Technology Co., Ltd.) and his CEO Charles Gu as well as his assistant Daisy Wu was an extremely positive experience to make this event happening on the highest level. It is hoped that the drive of our professional relationship can be maintained for future projects. The program chairs Prof. Zhiyuan Zhang (Chinese Academy of Engineering) and Prof. Huiming Wang (Dean of Dental School Zhejiang University) as extraordinary leaders in Dentistry from China, and Prof. em. Jörg Strub and Prof. em. Carlo Marinello from Europe have brought together excellent speakers from around the world to present on the meeting's theme "Global Digital Communication and Action". As Co-Organizers acted Zhejiang University School of Stomatology and The College of Stomatology SJTU and Hong Kong Stomatological Association. We thank the Chinese colleagues who as a team of people from industry and academics worked efficiently together for a remarkable event. An impressive audience – more than 1200 participants – were part of presentations on the cutting-edge techniques, and on ideas and research that are guiding the Digital Field of Oral Health toward the future. They highly acknowledged the uniqueness of the event.

A pre-congress on Sunday afternoon preceded a densely loaded Scientific Program on Monday and Tuesday with clinically relevant lectures on surgical guides, framework design, digital workflows etc. and with hands-on exercises. The scientific program presented in a class of it's own. To personally meet Prof. Yimin Zhao with the application of his autonomous dental implant robot, perfectly sparked the two days of scientific exchange. He was followed by 23 top-notch international speakers who shared their clinical and research information with greatest enthusiasm.

Over 50 candidates participated at the traditional poster- and best educational video-presentation session. Both awards were generously supported by a grant provided from Zimmer Biomet and by a local Chinese grant. The following colleagues received an award or were especially recognized for their work:
